DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on March 18, 2008 has been entered. Currently claims 1-15 are under consideration for examination on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Patricia A. Riley (5,925,348).

The reference of Riley beneficially teaches the instant claims by disclosing therapeutic topical compositions of Sacred Lotus Seed, that comprise methyltransferase in suitable carriers or vehicles that include gels, creams, lotions and powders (column 3, lines 10-18, e.g.) for treatment of aging skin (column 2, lines 44-51, e.g.). Other sources of methyltransferase that may be used include extracts of Yellow Lotus plants and seeds (Nelumbo lutea), which would include the flower portion of the plant (column 4, lines 21-25, e.g.). The composition of Sacred Lotus may also contain additional antioxidants, minerals and hormones (column 5, lines 46-60, e.g.) and amino acids such as Aspartyl residues (Table 5, e.g.) or cysteine (Example 7, e.g.). Methyl donors of the cited composition include lecithin, as claimed (column 6, lines 17-23, e.g.).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to prepare a therapeutic Sacred Lotus Seed extract composition based upon the beneficial teachings provided by the cited reference, as discussed above. The adjustment of particular conventional working conditions is deemed merely a matter of judicious selection and routine optimization which is well within the purview of the skilled artisan.

From the teachings of the reference, it is apparent that one of ordinary skill in the art would have had a reasonable expectation of success in producing the claimed invention. Therefore, the invention as a whole was prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, as evidenced by the reference, especially in the absence of the evidence to the contrary.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed March 18, 2008, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1-15 over publication (US2002/0098253) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. Applicant's arguments with respect to the Obvious Double Patenting rejection over Patent No. (6,602,526) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Patent No. 5,925,348 - as set forth above.

Conclusion

No claims are allowed.
